FOREWORD

I thank God for His abundant grace that safeguarded you throughout 2024, just as He promised, keeping you from all harm and empowering you to passionately serve in His Kingdom. Truly, He deserves all the glory for using you mightily!

As we step into 2025, God has given a powerful promise for you: "I will come to you and bless you" (Exodus 20:24). Why does He bless you? Because you have faithfully declared His name—tirelessly, fearlessly, and selflessly. He is drawn to your unwavering commitment and will come down to bless you abundantly.

This year, your mission needs to accelerate from the outset. We are called to spread the fire of revival with even greater fervor. The name of the Lord must be proclaimed boldly in every corner. You, as Igniters who have carried the revival flame across the nation, must now intensify your mission of declaring His name. Wherever you share the gospel of Jesus' love, distribute gospel tracts, intercede fervently in prayer groups, and labor together in prayer, God will show up. He will wipe away tears, transform sorrows, and perform mighty miracles among the people.

The places where you declare His name will witness an extraordinary move of God. Signs and wonders will manifest with great intensity. Just as the early apostolic era saw the mighty works of God, we are stepping into a time where He will empower and use you in the same way.

Now is the time to deepen your prayer life!

Now is the time to proclaim the gospel with unwavering zeal!

Commit yourself as a disciple of Jesus, declaring, "I will not rest until my nation witnesses revival!"

May God bless and use you beyond measure in the days ahead!

Testimony: Joyline John

This is an exclusive interview with Pastor. Bennet Christopher, who was born into a Christian family as the son of a church pastor and was raised in devotion to God from a young age. Yet, in his youth, he fell into an obsession with cricket, only to be set apart by God for His purposes. Today, he lifts the name of the Lord high through songs and worship, many of which he received as divine inspiration.

Could you share about yourself and your early childhood?

I was born into a Christian family in the Coimbatore district as the son of a church pastor. Our family consisted of my father, mother, younger brother, and me. When I was just a year and a half old, a life-threatening incident occurred. While I was drinking milk, it accidentally entered my nasal passage, blocking both my nose and mouth, and I stopped breathing. For five minutes, I was completely without breath. During that critical moment, my mother prayed fervently, saying, "Lord, if You give my son his life back, I will dedicate him for Your service." Graciously, God restored my life, and from that moment, I was raised with a deep commitment to serve Him.

I grew up on a church campus, surrounded by a community that nurtured my faith. The campus also housed an orphanage with 35 boys, who became my playmates. My childhood was filled with joy, enriched by the love of my family and the bond I shared with these friends. Being the son of a pastor, I was brought up with a strong foundation in devotion to God, which shaped my early years profoundly.

After being dedicated to ministry as a child, how did your studies go?

From a young age, I was a diligent student, consistently excelling in academics and ranking first in my class. However, because my parents had already dedicated me to ministry, they were wary of celebrating my achievements, fearing I might pursue a career instead of following God's call. Even when I scored perfect marks, there was no applause or encouragement from them. This lack of appreciation deeply saddened me, to the point where I hesitated to show my progress reports to them. Yet, by God's grace, I remained steadfast in my studies, and He blessed my efforts abundantly.

What did you do when, despite being a bright student, you didn't receive appreciation from your parents?

At that time, my focus shifted to cricket. I discovered my talent for the sport and became so passionate about it that I behaved like a fanatic. I would sleep with my bat by my side and even carry it to shops. I idolized Sachin Tendulkar to the extent that if someone spoke ill of him, I was ready to pick a fight. My obsession was that intense. Seeing my growing interest in cricket, my parents became increasingly anxious, fearing I might abandon ministry. By the time I turned 15, my cricketing skills had impressed many, and they urged my parents to enroll me in professional cricket training. My father, however, vehemently opposed the idea. He was so furious that he beat me severely, resulting in a scar on my eyebrow from a fall onto the bed. That scar remains to this day. My father would often say, "I'm not asking anything else from you in this world. My only desire is that you serve the Lord." Since this was God's calling for my life, my parents were deeply committed to ensuring I fulfilled His purpose.

When cricket was your life, when did you develop a passion for ministry?

It was during my 10th grade that I began to feel a burden for ministry and the Church. Watching those who served the Lord filled me with a sense of dissatisfaction. A relentless thought stirred within me: "Someone must stand for the Lord. Who will stand by God's side? No matter what is lost—opportunities, positions, or comforts—someone must stand unwaveringly for Him. Why can't that someone be me?" The Lord continued to deepen this conviction within me. That season became the foundation for both my spiritual journey and my life in ministry.

Alright, Pastor! When did you first begin writing songs after feeling the burden of ministry? How did this grace for songwriting emerge?

I was around 15 years old when a preacher visited our church and delivered a sermon based on the verse, "Against You, You Only, have I sinned and done what is evil in Your sight." On my way home after the service, I felt the overwhelming presence of God. That verse came to me with a tune, and I sang it over and over again. When I reached home, I sat down and wrote the lines that the Lord placed in my heart in a notebook. To ensure I wouldn't forget the tune, I must have sung it at least a hundred times. That was the first song the Lord gave me.

From the age of 15, the Lord continued to bless me with many songs. By the time I turned 18, He had given me more than 20 songs. That's why I always say, "I don't write songs; I receive them." Whenever I'm in the presence of God, it feels as though someone is placing the lyrics and the tune in my heart. It's not my effort but a gift I receive from Him. I've often tried to write songs on my own, but no matter how hard I try, I simply cannot. How then can I claim that I write songs? It is purely by His grace that I receive them, not by my ability.

Certainly, Pastor! Recently, the songs "Unga Naamam Uyaranum" and "Avar Naamam Yesu Kristhu" have captured hearts by exalting the name of the Lord. Could you share the inspiration behind these songs?

The song "Unga Naamam Uyaranum" didn't begin with those exact lyrics. Initially, I received the tune for the Hallelujah chorus, along with the words "Aaviyanavare, Aaviyanavare" (Holy Spirit, Holy Spirit). Whenever I sang that chorus in various anointed gatherings, people would experience a fresh outpouring of the Holy Spirit. I kept repeating those words over and over. One day, during my prayer time, as I was immersed in singing "Aaviyanavare, Aaviyanavare," the lyrics suddenly shifted to "Hallelujah, Hallelujah." Shortly thereafter, God gave me the new words "Unga Naamam Uyaranum" along with the tune, and the song was completed that very day.

No matter where I am—whether travelling or at home—I have a habit of constantly worshipping and praising the Lord. During such moments of worship, I often feel a distinct divine presence, and that's when God places new songs in my heart. One day, as I was meditating on the greatness of God's name, He gave me the song "Avar Naamam Yesu Kristhu." This song carries a powerful message: in a world where people search for different remedies for different problems and worship multiple gods for various needs, there is only one name that is sufficient for every situation, every need, and every healing. That name is Jesus Christ, the name that leads us to eternal life and victory over every circumstance.

Can you tell us about your married life?

I was married in 2016 to Sister Percia Mothi. Our marriage stands as a testimony to God's faithfulness and miraculous provision. My wife works as an HR professional in an IT company, and we are blessed with two beautiful daughters.

What message would you like to convey to the youth?

In youth, it is natural to desire progress and fame. This yearning is valid, par-particularly for those who possess exceptional gifts and talents. However, these aspirations can sometimes make us impatient. I too experienced this. Nine years ago, I released a CD, confident in my talents, skills, and resources. Though I prayed before undertaking it, I failed to seek God's counsel on whether it aligned with His will or timing. The result? I incurred a financial loss of three lakh rupees. That experience taught me a valuable lesson: the importance of waiting for God's timing and will. Since then, I resolved to act only when God instructed. For many years, I waited. Finally, at the end of 2022, God gave me the green light to release songs. With His guidance, I began releasing them one by one. Through this journey, I discovered the immense power and blessings that come with aligning with God's will and timing.

As an elder brother sharing from my own life, I urge the youth to wait for God's appointed time, no matter how talented, resourceful, or full of opportunities you may be. If I had entered ministry prematurely, before being called by the Lord, I might have preached incorrect messages or released songs lacking depth and truth. Therefore, it is crucial to seek God's guidance and wait for His timing to fulfill your calling. I graduated from Bible College 14 years ago, and today, as I reflect on those years, my heart overflows with joy. None of those 14 years were wasted. After my marriage, however, life was far from easy. I didn't have a stable ministry, nor did I earn enough to support my family. Month after month, I had to borrow money from my wife to meet expenses. Many who saw my situation mocked me and spoke words that wounded my heart. Yet, during those difficult days, the biblical account of Aaron's rod that budded became a source of great strength and encouragement to me. When the twelve staffs were placed in the presence of God, only the staff chosen by the Lord sprouted to life. Overnight, it budded, blossomed, and produced ripe almonds. According to human reasoning, planting a dry staff in the ground, watering it faithfully, and waiting years for it to bear fruit might seem logical. But in the presence of God, all it took was one night for transformation to occur. This revelation became a profound source of strength for me. Whenever I heard words that sought to discourage me, I would recall this incident and find renewed courage in the Lord.

To all the young people reading this, I want to leave you with this thought: Wait for the Lord's timing. Trust in His guidance. Our God makes all things beautiful in His time. No matter how talented or gifted we may be, the season when God shapes us is far more essential. It's a season He Himself ordains and anticipates. One more thing I wish to emphasize—if you have been called into God's ministry, there is no need to place your trust in men. No human being has the obligation to elevate or endorse you. If the One who called you is the Lord, He will take care of your path and purpose.

I WILL COME TO YOU AND BLESS YOU!

Message: Mohan.C. Lazarus

My Beloved Youth, I extend my heartfelt New Year wishes to each one of you in the sweet name of Jesus Christ! Just as a father carries his child on his shoulders, let us praise the Lord, who has carried us through the past year and blessed us to behold a brand-new one! Every year, as we prayerfully wait upon the Lord for His word concerning the Jesus Redeems ministry, He graciously gives us His promises and fulfils them faithfully. Likewise, as we sought His face for the year 2025, the Lord gave us this powerful promise: “Wherever I cause my name to be honoured, I will come to you and bless you” (Exodus 20:24).

My beloved young friend, whether you are working, studying, or ministering, the Lord promises to come to the very place where you are and bless you abundantly!

- If you are engaged in a business, He will come and bless the work of your hands.
- If you are employed, He will visit you in your workplace and lift you up.
- If you are pursuing your studies, He will be with you in your academic journey and bless you with success.
- If you are serving in ministry, He will come to your mission field, bless your efforts, and exalt you for His glory!

May this year be a season where the presence of God visits you personally, fulfilling every promise and transforming every aspect of your life!

On that day in Nain, Jesus Christ performed an astounding miracle by raising a widow’s only son from the dead. Witnessing this, the people marvelled and exclaimed, “God has visited His people!” (Luke 7:16). All who sought Him received abundant blessings from His hands. At the same time, the Scriptures record numerous instances where He actively sought out people, performed miracles, and brought joy to their lives.

That same Lord Jesus Christ is still at work today, meeting those who seek Him and performing wonders in their lives. Today, the Lord speaks to you, saying, “My child, I am coming to meet you and bless you!” Let us take a moment to reflect on the many blessings the Lord bestows upon us when He meets with us.

The Blessing of Salvation

In the bustling town of Jericho, a man named Zacchaeus held a unique position—he was both the chief tax collector and a wealthy figure of influence. His job as a tax official brought him considerable income, and his status made him well-known throughout the city. Yet, despite his affluence and reputation, Zacchaeus lived with a restless heart. Peace eluded him. In this state of inner turmoil, Zacchaeus yearned to see Jesus Christ. Driven by curiosity and desperation, he sought an opportunity to encounter Him. To Zacchaeus' astonishment, Jesus sought him out instead. Looking up at Zacchaeus, perched on a sycamore tree to catch a glimpse of Him, Jesus declared, "Zacchaeus, come down immediately. I must stay at your house today." (Luke 19:5). The words left Zacchaeus stunned. He could hardly believe what he had heard. "In this town, no one loves me. Not a single person respects me as a fellow human being. They label me a sinner and keep their distance. But the very God who came in human form is choosing to stay in my home?" he thought, overwhelmed with amazement. True to His word, Jesus entered Zacchaeus' house. There, He proclaimed, "Today salvation has come to this house." (Luke 19:9). That moment marked a profound blessing for Zacchaeus and his entire household.

The forgiveness of sins—the gift of salvation—is the greatest, truest, and most exalted blessing that God offers us. Just as He bestowed this gift upon Zacchaeus and his family, this blessing is available to us today. "I will come and bless you!"—This promise from the Lord was fulfilled in Zacchaeus' life when Jesus visited him and bestowed upon him the priceless blessing of salvation. But how did this extraordinary blessing come to Zacchaeus?

Up until that moment, Zacchaeus had been accumulating wealth unjustly for himself and his household. Yet, for the first time, standing in the presence of Jesus Christ, he made a remarkable declaration: "Lord, I give half of my possessions to the poor, and if I have cheated anyone, I will repay them four times the amount." Zacchaeus recognised his wrongdoing, repented with a sincere heart, publicly confessed his sins, and corrected his actions. Only then did the Lord grant him the unparalleled blessing of salvation.

Dearly beloved, the blessing of salvation does not come easily. To receive it, we must first have an awareness of our sins and a genuine heart of repentance. Furthermore, as we correct the areas in our lives that need realignment, the Lord will pour into our hearts the joy, peace, and all-encompassing blessings that come with His priceless gift of salvation!

The Blessing of Healing!

"When Jesus came into Peter's house, He saw Peter's mother-in-law lying in bed with a fever. He touched her hand, and the fever left her, and she got up and began to serve Him" (Matthew 8:14–15). The Holy Bible recounts this powerful moment when Peter's mother-in-law, gravely ill with a high fever and confined to what seemed like her deathbed, encountered the healing touch of Jesus Christ. When Jesus entered Peter's house and gently touched her hand, the fever immediately departed. What a transformation! The house, filled with sorrow and fear over the possibility of impending death, was turned into a place of renewed life and hope through the presence of Christ.

The same Lord Jesus, who transformed the deathbed into a testimony of life, speaks to you today: "I will come to you and bless you" (Exodus 20:24).

Are you troubled and overwhelmed today, worrying about a loved one in your family who is battling an incurable illness and confined to their deathbed? Do not despair! Jesus Christ can heal and bless them. But for Him to bless your home, you must first welcome Him into your life. Once He enters, blessings are inevitable, and among His greatest gifts is the blessing of good health.

Today, the Lord looks at you and says, "My beloved child, I long to step into your home and shower you with my blessings. But I can only enter if you open your heart and invite me in. I am ready and waiting to dwell with you."

The Blessing of Restoration

In a small village called Bethany, located about two miles from Jerusalem in the land of Israel, there lived two sisters, Martha and Mary. They had one beloved brother named Lazarus. One day, tragedy struck their home as Lazarus fell seriously ill and suddenly passed away. Devastated, the sisters laid their only brother to rest, their hearts consumed with grief and loss. Four days after Lazarus had been buried, Jesus Christ arrived in Bethany. Upon hearing that Jesus was coming, Martha hurried to meet Him. With a heart weighed down by sorrow, she said, "Lord, if only You had been here earlier, my brother would not have died! But now, it has already been four days since he was laid in the tomb" (John 11:21, 39). Like her sister, Mary too went to Jesus, falling at His feet, weeping, and pouring out her anguish before Him (John 11:28-32).

My beloved, today you might find yourself in tears, mourning the loss of something dear. Perhaps you're surrounded by ridicule, shame, and mockery, feeling as though life has come to a standstill, with thoughts echoing, "It's all over; there's nothing left!" Do not be disheartened! Jesus Christ will come to your home, wipe away your tears, and bless you abundantly. If you desire His miraculous intervention in your life and family, open your heart to Him today. Welcome Him in, make room for Him, and He will step in and do wonders for you. One day, Martha and Mary extended an invitation to Jesus Christ to visit their home. With love and grace, He accepted their invitation, entered their home, and blessed them abundantly (Luke 10:38). In the same way, you too can approach Jesus with an open heart, saying, "Lord, I desire to be Your child. Come into my home, dwell with us, and bless our family." When you extend such an invitation, the Lord will surely come.

My beloved, our God is capable of granting us every blessing, for all blessings are found in Him. He is ready and willing to come to you and bless you abundantly. However, He desires one thing from you in return. What is that? He says, "In every place where I cause My name to be remembered, I will come to you and bless you" (Exodus 20:24).

The Lord expects you to proclaim the name of Jesus Christ. Will you yield yourself to this calling? When you surrender to Him, He will surely come and bless you. Jesus bore all your sins, curses, sicknesses, worries, shame, and reproaches upon the cross, offering Himself as a sacrifice to bless you.

Therefore, place your unwavering faith in the name of the Lord, declare His name boldly, and praise Him with all your heart. Embrace the name of Jesus with steadfast confidence, and when you do, He will certainly enter your life and bless you in ways beyond measure! ■

(One day Youth Fasting Prayer)

With a divine vision to raise young prayer warriors, the Mount Sinai one-day youth fasting prayer meeting has been held annually since 2010. Each year, on the day of Diwali, thousands of young people gather to fast and pray fervently for the nation—interceding for its revival and repenting for the sins that abound within it.

This year, by God's grace, the gathering expanded to 30 locations across Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh, Pondicherry, and Maharashtra. Remarkably, 9,903 young participants came together, lifting their hearts in prayer for the nation. Many of them dedicated their lives to rise for Christ and, in a powerful act of commitment, distributed over 250,000 gospel tracts, embarking passionately on the mission to spread the Good News. All glory be to God alone!

Revival Igniters Camp

Since 2021, under God's vision for the Jesus Redeems ministry, the Revival Igniters Camp has brought together over 13,000 youth from across India, including Tamil Nadu, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, Karnataka, Kerala, and the northeastern states. Participants received the fire of revival and carried it back to transform their regions. In May 2024, the fourth batch, specifically designed for Tamil Nadu youth, ignited 1,093 participants with a revival fire and a fresh anointing. They have now returned to their towns and villages, passionately sharing the Gospel and sparking a movement of transformation.

16.9 Lakh AIDS Patients in India: Report from the Ministry of Health

India is home to 16.9 lakh AIDS patients, according to the Ministry of Health. World AIDS Day is observed globally on December 1 each year. Marking this occasion, the Ministry released a statement highlighting significant developments in the country's fight against AIDS.

The statement noted that India's battle against AIDS began in 1985. This sustained effort has led to a reduction in the prevalence of AIDS over recent years. To commemorate this year's World AIDS Day, a new awareness campaign has been launched under the theme "Leave No One Behind: My Health, My Right." This initiative aims to educate the public and promote health rights. The World Health Organization (WHO) has set a target to eradicate AIDS by 2030, and the Ministry of Health is actively implementing various strategies to achieve this ambitious goal.

Union Minister of State for Health, Anupriya Patel, in a written response to the Lok Sabha, shared some key statistics. She stated that India had 13.8 lakh AIDS patients in 2019-2020, a number that has risen to 16.9 lakh in 2023-24. Among these, 8.7 lakh are men, 8 lakh are women, and 6,637 belong to the transgender community. Over the past four years, 3 lakh new cases have been reported, reflecting the ongoing challenges in tackling the disease.

Dr. Saima Wazed, Regional Director for WHO Southeast Asia, added further insight. Speaking about the impact on children in the region, she stated, "Over 80,000 children, most of them under the age of 14, are living with AIDS in Southeast Asia. WHO is implementing multiple initiatives to ensure their protection and care."

These figures underscore the continued need for vigilance and robust interventions to combat the spread of AIDS in India and beyond.

Russia's Keen Interest in Manufacturing Trains in India to Meet Domestic Demand

Russia has expressed strong interest in making significant investments in India to fulfill its domestic railway needs. Furthermore, Russia is planning to establish a dedicated production facility in India to manufacture train coaches required for its railway system.

Last week, TMH, one of Russia's largest railway companies, held discussions with Indian Railways officials regarding this initiative. TMH is already involved in producing the sleeper-equipped 'Vande Bharat' trains in India.

A senior railway official stated yesterday, "The demand for trains in Russia is extremely high. As a result, Russia is keen on investing in India, sourcing spare parts, and setting up a manufacturing hub."

In an interaction with Indian journalists in Moscow, TMH CEO Kirill Lipa elaborated on the matter:

"Compared to other countries, interest rates in India are more favorable. Hence, we are planning substantial investments here. We have already entered into agreements with several Indian companies to supply various components required for Russian railways. We share a strong relationship with these firms and aim to increase our imports of parts from them," he said.
